Reasons for Allowance

10. The following is the Examiner's statement of reasons for allowance.

11. Regarding the claimed terms, the Examiner notes that a “general term must be understood in the context in which the inventor presents it.” In re Glaug 283 F.3d 1335, 1340, 62 USPQ2d 1151, 1154 (Fed. Cir. 2002). Therefore the Examiner must interpret the claimed terms as found on pages 1-12 of the specification. Clearly almost all the general terms in the claims may have multiple meanings. So where a claim term “is susceptible to various meanings, . . . the inventor’s lexicography must prevail . . .” Id. Using these definitions for the claims, the claimed invention was not reasonably found in the prior art.

12. The primary reference Eglen (U.S. 2003/0023505) discloses as previously discussed. Eglen however does not teach at least “wherein receipt of said data indicating sale of said licence ticket triggers said supplier of said computer program product to charge said seller for a licence to use said computer program product” and “validating said licence key sent to said download source computer based on said transmitting of said licence key, utilizing said download source computer, wherein said receipt of said data indicating sale of said licence ticket validates said licence key associated with said licence ticket such upon subsequent receipt of said licence key at said download source computer said licence key will be treated as valid.” Moreover, the missing claimed elements from Eglen are not found in a reasonable number of references. Yet even if the missing claimed elements were found in a reasonable number of references, a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made would not have been motivated to include these missing elements in an embodiment in the Eglen disclosure because: the serial number in Eglen is the validation and does not require validation itself.

13. Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
